

APPENDIX I – MESSAGE OF SUPPORT FROM THE PRESIDENT

MALACANAN PALACE
MANILA

MESSAGE

My warmest greetings to the organizers and participants of the SDGs ResiliART Festival and Forum for Health Peace and Climate Justice.

The COVID-19 pandemic has taken much from the people and the whole world. It is thus crucial for organizations and individuals like you to unite in taking the right steps so that no one will be left behind and everyone may fully recover and flourish.

I thus commend the Earthsavers DREAMS Ensemble-UNESCO Artist for Peace and its local and global partners for working together to make this series of events possible. Your initiatives to take a creative yet critical approach in presenting and discussing our sustainable development goals are truly noteworthy. Such efforts are helpful in turning these goals into concrete actions that truly resonate with our people.

This administration is devoted to ensuring that every Filipino will have access to the resources and services they need to thrive, and it supports all endeavors that will help create a sustainable planet for future generations.

Congratulations and I wish you the best in all your endeavors.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

: Theatre, Music, or Dance.

WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES

NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS

: 20 Participants

COURSE OUTLINE

: Workshop Module for both:

Day 1:

Introduction of the participants according to their interest. They will be given improvisation exercises in the field they are interested in.

Then they will form 3 groups -- Theatre, Dance, Music. Each group will improvise a short 3 minute piece on their stories regarding the SDG on Justice & Injustice & probable resolution.

DAY 2:

Polishing of their exercise piece and interactions with each group.

DAY 1 & 2 will have videos. The reason why there is a one day lull between Day 1 & 2 is for the groups to have ample time to rehearse and experiment on their own which is also an objective to a sustained artistic effort.

WORKSHOP DATES	: November 19, 24, 25
WORKSHOP TIME	: 9:00am – 5:00pm
WORKSHOP VENUE	: Porac Pampanga & San Jose Del Monte Bulacan
WORKSHOP TITLE	: "PADAYON"
WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION	: Theater, Arts & Music
WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES	:

The world have seen how these group of people fought all kinds of adversities, manmade or otherwise and survive. They have suffered decades of neglect, disrespect, exclusion, discrimination and persecution from authorities and from society in general. They were deprived of their rights to education, health care, food & shelter, decent way of making a living and the equal protection of the law. Even the media in general is guilty of all these crimes hurled against them. Yet, in spite of all these, they were able to survive as a people. They remain steadfast, determine, unwavering and resolute in overcoming all and any form of menace that endangers their very existence. We have so much to learn from them. But first, they must be heard. They must have a voice and must learn how to use it. We in our own little way, can help in the process. Thru theater, arts and music, we can give them the tools to enhance their way of looking, understanding, appreciation and assessment of the world they're in. And in the end, help them express themselves so that the nation and whole World, whether they like it or not, have to listen to everything about their hopes and aspirations as a people and make us realize that they are also part of this world that the creator has given us.

WORKSHOP VENUE	: QC Circle and K1 Filinvest 2
WORKSHOP TITLE	: "ARTS EDUCATION FOR ALL"
WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION	: Arts for all!

The workshop will teach basic theatre movements, basic dance movements, improvisation, and a little of modern dance for warm-up flexibility, strength, and stage presence. There will be voice warm-up and learning of songs since they are all original compositions of my performing arts students at PUP to be shared to the PWDs. There will be a culminating show.

WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES : "The true purpose of arts education is not necessarily to create more professional dancers or artists. It is to create more complete human beings who are critical thinkers, who have curious minds, who can lead productive lives" and so we offer this dance theatre free workshop for the PWDs to inspire them to further discover their capabilities and prove to this world that they are handy capable and must be given a chance to be part of social change, advancement in this country where we live in and be part of the changing world. To prove the probability of giving arts for all is definitely possible! To inspire the PWDs to dream and inculcate in us the value of sharing, giving, teaching thus being a catalyst for humanity showing that we can be better people and leaders to a better world.

BACKGROUND

Spearheaded by Visual Art Facilitator Nemiranda, the Mural Painting Workshop brings Art Enthusiasts not only from Rizal province but also its neighboring cities in metro manila to three (3) day's events is a composite of Exhibit and Mural Painting Workshop on the side. This is the First time this workshop has been going on

The Mural Painting Workshop runs from;

November 23 at Nemiranda Arthouse – Meet up and Orientations.
November 27 - Creation of Study Drawing and the initial start of the mural
December 01 – Ingress of Materials at Philippine Normal University (PNU)
December 02 – Start Execution of Materials
December 03 – Continuation of Mural
December 04 – Presentation and Exhibition

The event would not have been successful without the support of the Philippine Normal University (PNU), The Manila Hotel, and the Participating Artists from The Angono Ateliers Philippines Association (AAPA).

PROFILE OF BENEFICIARIES: AUDIENCE/PARTICIPANTS

In general, the main beneficiary of the Workshop was the public because they were able to appreciate artworks and creative expressions.

Similarly, the participating artists benefitted from the workshop because they were able to experience this, interact with their fellow artists, and gain new insights.

GLOBAL SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS (SDGs) RESILI-ART EARTHSAVING FESTIVAL/FORUM AND WORKSHOP

The EarthSavers DREAMS Ensemble honored as UNESCO Artist for Peace and Social Change Network of the International Theater Institute successfully organized the annual Global SDGs ResiliArt Earth-saving Festival/Forum and Workshops in partnership with Northwestern Mindanao State College of Science and Technology (NMSCST) in Tangub City, Misamis Occidental, Philippines. This program aimed to protect people and the planet, promote peace and poverty eradication through partnerships. This creative dynamic use of techno arts communications strategy harvests the best lifelong learning practices from all continents to inform and motivate the actualization of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (UN-SDGs).

This year's forum highlights the human rights provision which focus on the indigenous peoples in the Province of Misamis Occidental hosted by the Northwestern Mindanao State College of Science and Technology – being one of the delivering HEIs offering significant mandates in line with the goals of UNESCO. This partnership engagement between NMSCST and ITI propagates a cultural diplomatic exchange among various participants from different continents and the Subanen tribal group in Misamis Occidental.

The Global SDGs ResiliArt Earthsaving Festival/Forum and Workshop is a 3-day activity. On the first day, the College welcomed the delegates from Manila, Columbia, and Ecuador namely; Mr. Basilidas V. Pilapil, Dr. Viktor Sebek, Dr. Sonia Roca, and Mr. Jahir Benavides.

Start of the program proper held at the NMSCST grand ball room where all participants gathered and interacted with the speakers during the plenary.

The NMSCST Chorale and Bughaw Dance Troupe performed several OPM songs and cultural dances.

The NMSCST Faculty chorale led the opening of the program proper with Professor Mar John Dauyo as conductor.

The invited performers, Kagay-an Performing Arts of Koryo Mindanao, Inc. conducted workshops on different tribal dances in Mindanao such as Subanen Dance, Talaandig, Muslim, and more. The aim of these performances was to showcase the diverse folksongs and folkdances inherited from Mindanao and the Philippines as a whole.

After being filled with so much excitement and interactive participation during the dance workshop in the morning, the KPA were astounded with glamour and charm with their costumes and props showcasing the stories of Mindanao indigenous groups through indigenous dances. The dances are considered as symbolic roots of the indigenous peoples because they represent the complex structures and uniqueness of each tribe from one another.

The KPA showed the audience, as well as the foreign guests with their back to back performances, showcasing the ever unique, rich and diverse culture and heritage of indigenous peoples in Mindanao. These performances ignited love and harmony with the island Mindanao.

After the workshop in the morning, a grand cultural night was held where KPA showcased the rich and diverse dances of different tribal groups in Mindanao. Such event transcends the beautiful and inspiring stories of people in Mindanao.

The last day of the vent was made extra meaningful because of the presence of the city Mayor, Hon. Jennifer W. Tan. Hon. Tan expressed her commendation to the NMSCST and so as with the foreign delegates because according to her, their presence is very meaningful to Tangub. Tangub is one with a very high appraisal to culture and heritage preservation, and Hon. Tan is in fact a founder of the Sinanduloy Cultural Troupe – a multi-awarded dance troupe of Tangub. Hon. Tan also made remarks that hopefully, the event could be held much bigger next year, where all indigenous peoples in Mindanao will be represented. She highlighted and also acknowledged the presence of the Subanen chieftain in Tangub, Gukom Ben Tual.

Ms. Cleophil Yonting, whom is the city historical commissioner also gave her talk on the historical antecedents of Tangub highlighting its origin and remnants of people which are the indigenous peoples.

Gukom Ben Tual also gave his sentiments on the current state of the Subanen people in Tangub. He wished that perhaps, more research and extension activities be conducted within their culture in order to let the young individuals know their roots and preserve their culture.

Mayor Jennifer W. Tan invited the foreign delegates to her home at Banglay, Tangub City, Misamis Occidental to enjoy the night. Mayor Tan hosted Victor, Sonia, and Jahar to her house in order to express her gratitude to the guests who have come very far away just to visit Tangub. They have talked a lot of future undertakings that would stimulate the spirit of culture and the arts in Tangub and Mindanao as a whole. The foreign delegates were very much thankful too to the Mayor and they assured that this would not be the last time that the FFI and NMSCST to initiate collaborations. This event is just an opening in order to create a strong bond with the aim of promoting indigenous knowledge and preserving indigenous cultures.

APPENDIX I-D-1.1 SDG PLAYWRIGHT COMPETITION

1. Number of Entries: 17 Worldwide

2. Winners:

RED EARTH from Africa/Arab region: Nigeria:

Playwright OSINACHI EZEMA K

Theme: The play focuses on the implications of unsustainable eating and unsustainable policies, and how they impact on Peace, Climate Action, and Social and Economic Justice. Its Central message is how unsustainable production and policies can brew injustice and violence and destroy all other progress we may have made.

BOOMERANG from Asia Pacific: Philippines;

Playwright: BELINDA RIOS

Theme: Boomerang is a tight drama that explores the proliferation of fake news and internet trolls – those nameless entities hidden in proverbial cloaks spreading lies and anger in the online world. But what we don't know are the faces behind the masks. These are ordinary Filipinos coerced to do the devil's work because of poverty and economic slump brought about the Pandemic, ineffectiveness of the Pandemic response, and the lack of support in resuscitating businesses that folded because of the Pandemic. Apart from this, Filipinos are still facing day-to-day troubles of drug use, extra-judicial killings and corruption, that choke upon their necks, making them feel like they have no other choice.

UN TIRO AL AIRE from Argentina from Latin America and the Caribbean;

Playwright LETICIA ARBELO

Theme: Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls Women who wait for men to wake up, respond to them, understand them, speak the truth and show their feelings. The women who wait. Women who despair because of the silence of men. Women who encourage each other.

APPENDIX I-D-1.2 SDG PLAYWRIGHT COMPETITION

THE SURVIVAL from The United States: Europe and North America.

Playwright ACHIRO PATRICIA OLWOCH

Theme: This play relates to basic human rights related to Social and Economic Justice. 'The Survival' highlights the negative connotation that women are second class citizens and must adhere to a certain way of life to be accepted in the society. More importantly, this play highlights the plight of homosexuals in Uganda. The right to live is a basic human right. The right to love should not have handles or restrictions on who and to love. This play through the different characters showcases the fight for survival in this world in whatever capacity or situation the characters find themselves.

3. Board of Jury:

DAG THELANDER
(Sweden)

A playwright and artistic director at the independent theatre company Theater C in Uppsala. Dag is also a freelance writer, director and teacher, and a member of the Writers Guild of Sweden.

Dag written plays for 2012 include Gud har annat för sig (God's away on business), a show with new dark stories combined with classic songs by Tom Waits and produced by Teater C at the Regina theatre in Uppsala; Frågor och svar (Questions and answers), a play produced by Dramalabbet in Stockholm and directed by Karin Hauptmann, Klara Andersson in concert, a musical produced by Teater C at the Regina theatre and music by Per Wickström.

His other written plays include Tolv historier (Twelve stories), a play produced by Teater C at the Regina theatre, which also guest performed at Dramalabbet in Stockholm and was toured in hospitals and public libraries during the spring of 2012; Se upp för dörrarna! (Mind the door!), modern farce produced by Dramalabbet in Stockholm and directed by Erik Magnusson; and Hata mig (Hate me), with music by Niclas Dahl, it is a musical produced by Teater C at the Regina theatre, which was also performed at Dramalabbet in Stockholm and at Teater Galeasen as part of the festival Real Love in the summer of 2010.

Dag directed plays such as Alla älskar Bernie Madoff (Everybody loves Bernie Madoff) by Gustav Tegby in 2009, an economic comedy directed for Dramalabbet which won a national theatre competition called “Puls på Sverige” and was therefore also shown at the Royal Dramatic Theatre and on national television in 2010; and Vita Glöden (White Embers) by Saviana Stanescu Romanian in 2008, a thriller directed for Dramalabbet and which also performed at the Sibiu theatre festival in Romania.

APPENDIX I-D-1.3 SDG PLAYWRIGHT COMPETITION

He was awarded the Grant for Artistic Excellency from the county of Uppland in 2010 and the Grant for Artistic Excellency from the Municipality of Uppsala.

For his education, he finished Theoretical Philosophy (2003-04) at Stockholm University and wrote a final thesis on the explanatory gap in the philosophy of the mind. He also took up “To Write Drama” (2002-03 and 2005-06), a two-year project-oriented course in the art of dramatic writing. The final project of the course is the script Stenarna (Turn to stone) mentored by Dennis Magnusson.

As a dramaturge, he was one of the jury members at the Nordic collaboration New Baltic Drama, a competition for young Nordic playwrights in 2010. And in 2009, he was the dramaturge and administrator of the Dramatic Laboratory Network (DLN), a project managed by Dramalabbet with the intent of building a network of European Theatres which all produce and develop new drama.

TALIA PURA (USA)

I am a filmmaker, playwright, actor, dancer and educator. I have created ten short dramatic films, which have played at various film festivals and on television.

As a playwright, I have had many performances and several publications across Canada and in the USA. My books, STAGES: Creative Ideas For Teaching Drama, 2nd edition, and CUES: Theatre Training & Projects from Classroom to Stage, were published in 2013 and available on Amazon.

As an actor, I have appeared in many feature films, television shows and independent shorts, and performed on many Canadian and New York City stages.

I have performed aerial silks in many venues and integrated aerial dance, on silks and hoop, into several dramatic roles, including Puck, in A Midsummer Night's Dream. Until relocating to Santa Fe, NM, in December 2015, I taught drama at the University of Winnipeg and coordinated a Youth Mentorship in the Arts Program for the Arts and Cultural Industries Association of Manitoba. I enjoy adjudicating dance, drama and speech arts festivals, and conducting workshops, including the Playwrights Colloquium in the Philippines, 2013 & 2014 and the Activist Literacies conference at the University of Georgia 2013. Most recently, I taught a workshop in Devised Theatre at the Women Playwrights International Conference, in Cape Town July, 2015 and a course in drama integration in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

APPENDIX I-D-1.4 SDG PLAYWRIGHT COMPETITION

DR. ANTON JUAN JR. (PHILIPPINES)

When Anton Juan started directing at the age of 17, his plays would leave an indelible mark for their avant garde freshness and power. Known as the "enfant-terrible" of Philippine theatre for his innovative and visually poetic, visceral, and radical work of theatre and corporal expression that respond to issues of social justice, Anton Juan is now respected as the mentor of significant established and emergent artists nationally and internationally.

He obtained his primary and secondary education at the Ateneo de Manila University, and his BA in Comparative Literature at the University of the Philippines. He received a series of grants and scholarships abroad, notably in Italy, France, Greece, Japan, and the U.S. His Ph.D. in Semiology earned him a mark of Arista (equivalent to summa cum laude) from the University of Athens. His post-doctoral work include a Hitachi Foundation grant for a study of the Japanese Noh theater and Butoh dance with Sensei Kazuo Ohno, and a Fulbright grant for research on Filipino production during the American occupation, which won the Centennial Prize for the full-length play THE PRICE OF REDEMPTION. His numerous awards include the Alexander Onassis Foundation International Prize for Playwriting for TUKOO! TUKOO. the French Chevalier de l'Ordre des Arts et Lettres and Chevalier de l'Ordre National de Merit, Manila's Alagad ng Sining, UMPIL Alagad ni Balagtas, UP Chancellor's Most Outstanding Faculty and Most Outstanding Artist, Asian Cultural Council Award, and various Palanca Awards, among them for his works TAONG GRASA and DEATH IN THE FORM OF A ROSE. He continues to be an active lecturer, workshop panelist, visiting professor, director, designer, and librettist for productions. His works have been admired in Europe, USA, South America and Asia. His film on streetchildren HINABING PAKPAK NG ATING MGA ANAK was Official Selection of Window into Asia at Busan IFF. And won best film and director at the Chandler IFF and Toronto Diversity IFF. Critic and scholar Peter Holland writes: "Juan is among the most enthralling directors of the world...whose work powerfully speaks truth to power."

Session 3 – HEALTHCARE REFORM and SUSTAINABLE TOURISM

1. Honorable Ignacio Sanchez Amor has delved into the current situation in the international arena. According to him, we tend to focus more on implementing sanctions than treaties, which is alarming. Amor has emphasized the discussion on Cultural Diplomacy as a solution to the threats of international war. He has also cited the cause of the international dispute: the identity policies that defeat the multicultural world. Multicultural existence could be an excellent state in this time of post-COVID crisis. There is the racing of identity policies that exclude the multicultural perspective. Amor reiterated that cultural diplomacy has a vital role in this environment of post-covid scenario.

Amor also stated that Europe had tried its best to cope with the crisis through a creative vaccine, health, and economic policy. He asserted that there would be no post-COVID scenario won't work together. There should be a joint effort among nations, and an international theory on pandemics can be a great response to this post-COVID state. The world should put their knowledge altogether to avoid a pandemic situation. Amor further emphasized that the people need to support the Science approach since it is the most secure approach.

Another thing he cited is the solidarity among any developing country, which can be manifested by removing all the obstacles that may hinder the successful distribution of vaccines worldwide. A commitment on giving donations should also be sustained. He ended his discussion on promoting the One Global Health advocacy, which links the environment, human health, and animal health to prevent the transfer of the virus. He encouraged the world to create and incorporate this political agenda of "one health" with the United Nations, World Health Organizations, and the international arena.

2. Prof. Jesus de Salvador embarked on the history of the Manila Galleon and its significant role in humanity. He emphasized that the Manila Galleon serves as the lighthouse that will give light to the challenging roads of crisis and war. De Salvador also mentioned the sustainable development goals to save the planet and humanity through arts and sciences. He added that for humanity to rise, science is necessary, and coordination of all institutions is essential. He ended his discussion with the notion that the way to resolve any crisis is to combine Science, Solidarity, and more international corporation.

3. Being one of the proponents of the Latin America Presidential Mission proponents, Salguero expressed her particular affection for the Philippines because of the mutual history linked with Spain and the Philippines. According to Salguero, she was amazed by the culture and history that the Philippines manifested. She was proud to discuss that central America is comprised of 600 million population with almost half of it being women. She added that to attain development, peace, and integration. Salguero emphasized that culture is the cement of our societies and that we can build many different bridges through it. She ended with the statement that the world should focus on unity rather than differences.
4. In his opening statement, Senator Bong Go recognizes the impact of covid 19 on the lives of many people all over the world. Senator believes that the arts and culture can help someone's recovery from different kinds of traumas caused by the pandemic. He also mentioned how the government responds through other health programs, initiatives, and projects to provide quality of life for Filipinos and improve the country's healthcare system. He encourages everyone to cooperate with various agencies and support the government's programs to attain sustainable development goals. He also cited some of the laws he authored to address the practical need of Filipinos. He refers to Malasakit Centers Act, which aims to put up Malasakit Centers in all DOH-run hospitals to give Filipinos convenient access to quality healthcare.
5. The Secretary expressed her hope that the Department of Tourism will soon recover from the losses caused by the pandemic. She ensures that the Department proposes programs that undergo careful planning to ensure the safety of the people and protect the environment. She also shares her perspective regarding the pandemic on how it helps the environment breathe and regenerate its resources. The closing of Boracay is the best example; as it undergoes rehabilitation for several months, it is now a model for sustainable tourism. She also mentioned the implementation of a three-month closed fishing season to allow new spawning of sardines, herrings, and mackerels in the Visayan sea.

New tourism circuits were developed from a different region in the country featuring either culture, culinary, arts, historical, or event religion that will promote holistic wellness of farm tourism. Hon. Puyat mentioned some of the initiatives of the Department to mitigate the effect of the pandemic.

6. The activation of Barangay Health Emergency Response Teams (BHERTs) is through the effort of DILG, which aims to give immediate assistance through the need of the barangay and to promote cooperation of local and national government. DILG Undersecretary Jonathan Malaya started his message with greetings and hope that soon, this pandemic will be over. He reminded us that we should not be complacent because there is still a virus threat. He proudly enumerates how the uniformed men responded when the pandemic started. Through a collaboration of local, national government, and other stakeholders, different programs to address the issues during the pandemic was successfully implemented. They even successfully teamed up with the Department of Health to assist its "BIDA ang may discipline" campaign. The said campaign was when different levels of quarantine restrictions were implemented. It only shows that becoming cooperative is the key to success. The DILG remains committed to cooperating with other agencies to give people service and improve their quality of life.
7. Dr. Chua showed in a short presentation the different Chinese dances, and he tells a description for each. Cross-cultural collaboration is his message, and this happens even informally during interactions. They collaborated with other countries like Vietnam and China. He encourages the use of digital technology to promote arts and culture. Using the online platform, more people can watch and appreciate performances without going to a theatre. For example, recorded performances can be streamed to YouTube and even direct broadcasting to reach more audiences. According to him, the pandemic doesn't deter them from collaborating with others, and they use an online platform such as zoom to do that.

8. A short video of Teofredo Ted Esguerra was shown during the Program showing how deeply passionate he is in arts. Dr. Esguerra promotes indigenous knowledge and products such as medicinal plants for treatment.
9. Mr. Labad shared how the province of Bohol recovered from different calamities that hit the region, such as a strong typhoon that left the area devastated. He showed in the short presentation what the local government unit has done to reach every people during trying times. He emphasizes the importance of coordination of every agency and stakeholders in the stage of recovery. Another short video clip was presented to show how the arts and culture can help heal and promote resiliency among people in the province. Mr. Labad is proud to showcase the overwhelming beauty of Bohol that captured the heart of everyone to visit the place and to try their local products.
10. Mr. Al Tesoro shared some of their Program in the province of Capiz. Promoting the local product is one of the projects of the region as they launched the Program Manindahan [Ta! Mr. Tesoro is also proud to show how beautiful the province of Capiz is in a short video presentation featuring different tourist spots in Capiz. They also prioritize the product made by indigenous people in their region.

Session 4 – CULTURAL DIPLOMACY towards ECONOMIC RECOVERY

News Article

MANILA CITY – The SDGs ResiliArt global public forum, organized by the Philippine Normal University-Manila in partnership with International Theatre Institute – Philippines Center, concluded with shared commitments to push for economic recovery and peace through art that puts people first. The forum also tackled the dangerous inequalities exacerbated by the COVID-19 crisis.

Held hybrid via Zoom and Philippine Normal University Board Lounge and live-streamed thru the official PNU Facebook Page, the interactive discussion was attended by world leaders from India, Ecuador, Colombia, Guatemala, Ghana, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, USA, and national officials of the country. Similar support was expressed to concretize the SDGs in enhancing culture and education in solving burning issues of extremism, racism, discrimination, climate change, artists' struggles, and diffusing harmful traditional practices.

"Culture is a fascinating thing. It is something that highlights our differences and diversity, yet, it connects all of us in mysterious ways. It is our medicine towards extremism," says Hon. Hasaan Khawar of India.

One of the commenters, Mr. Abdulhameed Al Saleh of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, emphasized the importance of enhancing, refining, and supporting indigenous culture towards effective cultural diplomacy. Moreover, Ms. August Melody Andong of the Philippines asserted that we need to bridge cultural differences and work together to save the planet as one big global citizen. She further added that we need not only tangible things to achieve SDGs. The intangible aspect is also crucial – culture – the fourth pillar of sustainable development.

Further, Professor Joelad Santos of the Philippines featured the comics, the illustrated theater of the world, as part of the Philippine culture. It has been used to project SDGs and inform people on different contemporary issues more than ever before.

In the latter part of the forum, a synthesis was delivered by Dr. Richard Monteverde. He underscored the need to focus on ambitious yet practical action plans for economic recovery. Besides, he recapitulated the need to involve people in accomplishing the SDG, to map out the human essence in creative industries, and the challenge to think global in cultural diplomacy and inclusive economic policies and programs.

Speaking at the closing of the forum, Johanna Kouzmine-Karavaïeff stressed, "artists are experts on dealing the VUCA contexts because of the inherent skills related to creative processes; they are invaluable." Additionally, Madame Cecile Guidote-Alvarez highlighted, "culture can accelerate SDGs; let us leave a legacy for the survival of our common home, Earth, and welfare of the people." Last, PNU President Bert Tuga shares the university's commitment to promoting and integrating the seventeen (17) SDGs in its programs and activities in teacher education.

NARRATIVE REPORT WITH PICTURE BY EDMARIE INDA COORDINATION INDIGENOUS CREATIVE INDUSTRIES SHOWCASE

Last April 3-6, 2022, During the Sustainable Development Goals ResiliArt Earthsaving Global Events, there were different native products exhibited in Fort Santiago, Metropolitan Theater and Manila Hotel in the 3day Festival under UNESCO Patronage.

The showcasing of different products, arts and crops, such as Tnalak, 9layers necklace and belt and Tboli blouses and many Tboli Traditional Attire made by Tboli Women Weavers and Beaders headed by Myrna Pula from Lake Sebu, Cotabato. from Obo Manobo of Mt Apo products brought by Manobo Woman Bae Mahumanay Inda, the necklaces, Manobo Traditional Attire and Accessories. from Northern part of the Philippines, Mrs Evangeline Quiambao, Aeta Leader from Zambales, showcased the native bags recycled bamboo fork and spoon, bracelet, necklaces, souvenirs item, wood carving who made by the Aeta Youth to help in their tuition and needs in School. Another from North was the showcasing of Traditional arts and crafts as well as traditional attire came from Kalinga Tribe in Kalinga province who led by Mrs. Florence Aowat and Mrs. Mercy Washington, from Kalinga women cooperative who made the products especially the involvement of Elder Women, PWD and Out of School Youth. The Muslim Women were unable to join because the Festival time coincided with the Ramdan period.

The Exhibitors were very much thankful and grateful to Mrs. Alvarez, Earthsavers for giving the opportunities to showcase their native products, arts and crafts as well as traditional medicine in the international event as well as they earned a lot from selling their products so that they will be able to share the earnings to their tribal community and cooperative products. They were so thankful that the Organizing Committee led by Mrs. Cecile Alvarez provided them food and hotel accommodation which is for them a once in a lifetime opportunity to appreciate indigenous creative industries.

The tribal delegates-exhibitors also gained a lot of friends, local and foreign artists that in the future will be developed into more cultural exchange and linkages which has been an advocacy of Senator Alvarez who hosted The Global Indigenous Cultural Olympics and Summit (2006) that focused in the wealth of indigenous heritage and history.

ULYSSES OF GHANA PROJECT

SYNOPSIS

Docufiction Ulysses from Ghana is inspired by the play Slaves written by Ghanaian author Mohamed Ben Abdallah. Transatlantic trade, depicted in the play, marked one of the darkest pages in the recent history of the world. Docufiction also weaves into the story of the play commentaries of contemporary Ghanaians on novel forms of modern-day slavery, as well as vestiges of racial discrimination across the globe as illustrated in Black Lives Matter movement. The film looks at how catharsis can be reached, and whilst not forgetting the cruel treatment of slaves, it looks forward to a better world where prejudices will no longer prevail.

The creative team has assembled a fine group of actors linked with the Ghanaian Centre of the International Theatre Institute of UNESCO with support of the Government of Ghana . In 2019 Ghana marked 500 years of sending Ghanaian slaves to Virginia. It subsequently launched a campaign "The Year of Return" resulting in visits by about one million people, connecting thus West Africa with its diaspora, and encouraging those who wanted to retrace their roots to settle in Africa – the opposite of contemporary migration patterns

Following success of Ulysses from Ghana, which is now destined to be shown at major festivals across the world, a plan is drawn to shoot eight more docufictions in selected destinations in South and Central America, Africa, Asia and Oceania.

CASTS

Ballesteros on My Mind – The Film

Ballesteros on My Mind – The Film had its world premiere at the Afro-Asian Night of the UNESCO-International Theater Institute (iTi)'s International ResiliArt Earthsaving Festival at the Manila Hotel in Manila, Philippines, on April 3, 2022.

Written by Rey E. de la Cruz (Chicago). Directed by Karlo Garcia Gino (Montreal). The film is based on de la Cruz's book, Ballesteros on My Mind: My Hometown in the Philippines (Carayan Press, 2016). It is based on a true story of a boy growing up with his family in the small town of Ballesteros in the province of Cagayan. The sea plays a major part in the life of the town, being the source of bountiful food and many enchanting stories. When an important building burns to the ground, the town's unity and strong determination enable it to rise again.

The film has won the following awards: Best Children's Short Film and Best Social Awareness Short Film, Golden Horse International Film Festival (India); Best Children's Short Film, Golden Leaf International Film Festival (India); and Best Social Awareness Short Film, Athvikvaruni International Film Festival (India).

Greetings from Pooja Sengupta
From Dhaka, Bangladesh

First of all I would like to thank the organizers for inviting me. My heartiest thanks to Ms Cecile Alvarez, UNESCO, ITI Philippines, NCCA, DFA, The Philippine Embassy in Dhaka and all other esteemed organizations who were part of this big event. I would like to thank the production team for supporting us during our performance, The Manila Hotel for the excellent hospitality, and all the esteemed delegates from different respective parts of the world. I strongly believe that cultural exchange between nations enhances creativity. The collaborative performance of my choreography "Nondini" produced by Turongomi Repertory Dance Theatre, Bangladesh and performed by guest artists from the Folklorico Filipino Dance Company was a perfect example of such a cultural exchange between Bangladesh and Philippines. My gratitude to Ms Shirley Halili Cruz and Ms Marichu Teleano for introducing me to the dancers.

For the future, I would like to request the organizers to share the entire program with us in detail, so that we can also share our thoughts with them. I am sure this will amplify the output of the event and also help us to protect ourselves from being part of any unwanted agenda or propaganda.

I would like to thank and congratulate Ms Cecile Alvarez for organizing such a beautiful event and making me a part of it.

FEEDBACK AND REPORT ON THE RESILARTS EARTH-SAVING FESTIVAL
MANILA, PHILIPPINES
3RD – 5TH APRIL 2022

INTRODUCTION: This is a report to indicate my experience as a delegate invited to perform and participate in the Resilarts Earth-saving festival that took place under the patronage of UNESCO-International Theatre Institute. The report is prepared by the participant, Swati Simha, who is an independent artist and activist and is presently associated with SSCC (South-South Co-operation Council) as a Youth Ambassador.

Cecile Guidote Alvarez was in-charge of the entire event and was accessible before and during the festival for any communication. The main person of contact from the organizing team was Dexjordi Lyle Sison and conducted most of the communication before and during the festival.

- I. PLANING AND PREPERATION: The event had been scheduled to take place in November-December 2021. However, it was delayed due to the pandemic and the organizers saw it fit to re-schedule the event to April 2022. I received an email invitation for the re-scheduled event on the 10th of March 2022.

Tickets: It was indicated that the ticket costs would have to be borne by the participant and the organizers were generous to offer to write letters to government departments for the sake of funding airfare.

However, there was not enough time to apply and wait for government funding and funds had to be arranged personally.

On interaction, I realised some participants' airfare was paid by the organizers. Clear indication of criteria for availing airfare can go a long way in facilitating exchange and dialogue.

VISA: Visa for my travel posed challenging. The bureaucratic measures put in place by the Philippines government for Indian citizens required more time for processing. Visa was eventually secured thanks to the persistent effort of Cecile Guidote Alvarez and her ability to connect with people in high office.

NOTE: Few small things can go a long way in facilitating international travel.

- a) A notice and invitation at least 2 months prior to the date of travel would help plan, secure funds and visas more smoothly.
- b) Letters written with only the first name of participant was not considered valid by government agencies. First Name, Last Name, Address and where possible Passport number on invitation letters as a rule of thumb would greatly help international participants.
- c) Separate letters to embassies in different countries. Each addressed to the ambassador of only that embassy.

2. LOGISTICAL SUPPORT:

On arrival, I was told I would be escorted by a driver to the Hotel. However, there was some confusion and another participant (from Thailand) and I who arrived on the same flight, were waiting outside arrival for over an hour when a security personal decided to help us contact Manila Hotel drivers. Dexjordi Lyle Sison was available on call, however as we had just arrived, neither of us had a phone connection to contact him.

Accommodation & Meals: The Manila Hotel was comfortable and the staff very polite and professional. Meals were hygienic and formal.

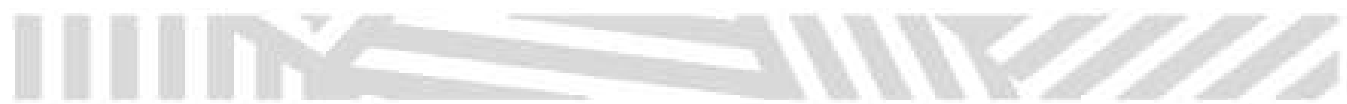

Return: Dexjordi Lyle Sison accompanied me to get a PCR test done and Return transfer was hassle free.

3. FESTIVAL PROGRAM:

The schedule for the different events were shared digitally to us before arrival and the programs arranged by the organizers ran smoothly and was an enriching experience. The performances at Fort Santiago, Intramuros was unique and diverse.

The rehearsal time we had the day before the show was sufficient for our short performances and doing two runs gave us a good idea about the way things would proceed.

A 'spontaneous' group performance was planned. However, this was not an inter-cultural improvisation where each of us engaged creatively, rather, it was a choreographed group dance. Perhaps, it would have been a lot more exciting to allow creative expression and given us the evening to come up with something ourselves. This would have also allowed us to understand different performance vocabulary, how they can come together and how people from other parts of the world are thinking about SDGs and come to a more organic improvisation.

Film screenings and other small evening performances and the markets outside performance spaces were a welcome addition to the program.

4. OTHER COMMENTS

There was a general tendency of the organizers to encourage people to represent something 'exotic' and 'traditional' about their nations. Certain forms of 'national movement' and 'national costume' were also preferred. While some of us engage critically with the dominant cultures within our own nations, others had a more contemporary and modern approach to their performance which was more suitable to talk about contemporary issues outlined by SDGs. This need to have critically thinking participants do something exotic was disconcerting and a more robust discussion must follow this tendency and see if we need exotic dances and movements to talk about SDGs or if we need a more critically engaged vocabulary that may well emerge from traditional performance styles but seize to be exotic spectacles and serve to provoke thought.

Some participants felt uncomfortable about the repeated mention of the war in Ukraine in a manner that clearly condemned one side. Of course, one must not hesitate to condemn war anywhere in the world but organizers can be mindful of the precariousities of artists representing their countries and its policies. Objections also came in the form of critique of how only some wars are talked about vociferously while others are often ignored.

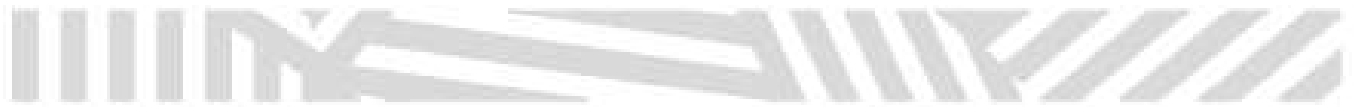

a) CONCLUSION

My sincere thanks to all the organizers for inviting me and ensuring the smooth running of the festival.

I would like to make a special mention to thank Cecile Ma'am for sharing with us important aspects of running and organizing international festivals and how we can do the same in our own countries. These were invaluable informal session and only wish there was a scheduled time to sit down and discuss some aspects of international exchange with Victor, Cecile Ma'am and other participants.

Hi Jordi,

how are you?

I send you a text about the festival.

The festival has been a great opportunity for communication between different cultural identities and this provided me with a great learning experience by connecting with other artists. Their perspectives of work focused on art and inclusion, especially the work I was able to do with actors with disabilities. It was a pleasure to be able to share different visions of how art is a great tool for social construction and education to fight inequality and promote a place of peace.

It was also a pleasure to be able to use my theatrical methodology with people in vulnerable situations, especially with children in an orphanage, I believe that theatre helps to learn in a more dynamic way different notions and contributions for solidarity.

Tell me if you need more text etc.

Thank you so much

Nazaret

REPORT ON THE SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS INTERNATIONAL RESILIART EARTH-SAVING FESTIVAL HELD IN MANILA, PHILIPPINES FROM 3RD TO 5TH APRIL 2022

1. INTRODUCTION

This report serves to give feedback on our experiences during the entire stay in the Philippines from 31st March 2022 to 7th April 2022. We generally had a pleasant stay in Manila courtesy of the hospitality we received from the Filipinos. We never had a dull moment nor missed home.

Special mention goes to the Philippine Center of the International Theater Institute (ITI) represented by Cecile Evidote – Alvarez, Nilo Agustin, Dexjordi Lyle Sison and Marie Gil Suyat, The Manila Hotel staff, delegates to the festival and technical staff whom we interacted with daily on a personal basis for engaging with us warmly and professionally.

2. FEEDBACK

Please find below our feedback broken down into segments we hope would be helpful for future cross cultural engagements.

2.1 Logistical Support

We are pleased to say that there was no situation we were neither stranded nor unattended to. Logistical support was accorded to us satisfactorily as further explained below:

2.1.1. Airport Transfers

Our airport transfers were timely and professionally done to our expectations save for the delays encountered at the airport on arrival due to the Covid 19 induced protocols which we view as beyond the host's control. We had to undergo a time consuming manual verification of the One Health Pass leading us to spending close to two hours at the airport.

2.1.2. Accommodation & Meals

We had a Five Star stay at The Manila Hotel. The weather was fairly hot but we hardly experienced it as the hotel and other facilities were well air conditioned. We enjoyed the meals and the meal times were fairly conducive. However, we propose that cross cultural options be availed in future to cater for all especially for cross cultural events.

DENDERE ARTS TRUST Est 2018

2.1.3. Communication

This was well catered for. We had free Wi-Fi at the hotel and local sim cards were availed to us for ease of communication outside the hotel Wi-Fi.

2.1.4. PCR Testing

PCR test facilitation was done timely and fully paid for by the host. Transport to and from the centre was conveniently provided.

2.1.5. Transportation

Transport to rehearsals, performances, market was promptly availed. Nonetheless, support with airfares for all participants would be appreciated as some got it and others footed their own individual fees.

2.2. Festival Program

The program was shared well in advance thereby giving us ample time to mentally prepare for programs. No program ever caught us by surprise. All performances were well articulated in resonance with the SDGs theme. It was an eye opening experience as we learnt quite a lot. We benefited from the Global Goal 17; Partnerships for goals were;

1. On 2nd April 2022 at Fort Santiago, Intramuros, we ran a cultural heritage preservation exchange workshop on dance with children and young audiences which included dancers and the Earth Savers on the famous Mbakumba dance which is popular among the Karanga people from Masvingo Province, Zimbabwe with song, background history and dance movement by Getrude Vimbayi Munhamo – Pfumayaramba and drumming and movement choreography by Tawanda Pfumayaramba. The Mbakumba dance is traditionally performed after harvest and for entertainment purposes.
2. Getrude Vimbayi Munhamo – Pfumayaramba performed a Tertulia of Music, Dance, Poetry, Puppetry and Indigenous Bazaar directed by Anton Juan.
3. Getrude Vimbayi Munhamo – Pfumayaramba participated in a joint invocation with Maria from The Philippines to open up the Afro-Asia Night on 3rd April 2022.
4. Tawanda Pfumayaramba participated in a performance by Mr Vin Makara, the clown from Cambodia.
5. Getrude Vimbayi Munhamo – Pfumayaramba participated in a Cross-Cultural Collaborative Showcase with other delegates from Bangladesh, Brazil, Cambodia, India, Indonesia, Japan, Philippines, Spain, South Korea and Thailand.

DENDERE ARTS TRUST Est 2018

Indeed through partnerships, great ideas can be sown and cultivated to the achievement of great deeds that will in turn make this world a better place for all.

2.3. Rehearsals

The rehearsal space met our expectations and the tech rehearsal went on well. However the following shortcomings were encountered with regards the dress rehearsal;

1. Water use on stage was prohibited; and
2. Correct props were not timely availed.

We are however grateful that the sound team managed to fuse in sound and lighting effects much to our satisfaction. The team was indeed cooperative to work with. We further propose that engagements be done well in advance so that an appropriate venue and props are secured in relation to required specifications of a theatre piece.

2.4. Performance

The performances went well. The administration team eventually managed to source the correct props before the show. For future engagements, we propose for the payment of performance fees especially bearing in mind that with our case, were we failed to secure partnership to meet our travelling costs.

2.5. Cultural Exchange

We acknowledge receipt of a book, Ballesteros on My Mind My Hometown in the Philippines, Festival Souvenirs in the form of branded coffee mugs, notepads and lanyards. We are truly grateful.

Further to that, we thank Mr Dexjordi Lyle Sison for gifting us with a Philippines souvenir, exposing and treating us to street cuisines and accompanying us to market tours.

Even though the program was tight, we would have appreciated a whole day dedicated to cultural exchange where delegates would have been exposed to cultural heritage tours for the benefit of exchange in historic background of countries respectively. Further to that, cross cultural diplomacy sessions or symposiums by the host for and with the delegates would be helpful to enhance exchange and skills transfer.

APPENDIX II-C- DELEGATES FEEDBACK KASING SINING BOHOL

Jerrey David Aguilar
Bohol Delegation

As a delegate from Bohol who is representing the Provincial Government of Bohol through the Provincial Youth Development Office and our repertory community-based theater company Kasing Sining, I was involved in the International Theater Institute Philippine Center's Sustainable Development Goals ResiliArt Earth-saving Manila Event Festival of Performances as:

Voice Over

- For the International Cultural Performances at the Metropolitan Theater (MET) on April 4, 2022, where I introduced the different performances from the different participating countries in the festival;
- For the Afro-Asian SDGs Night at the Manila Hotel on April 3, 2022 where I gave introduction to the segments of the event and introduced speakers.

Dancer

- For the Tertulia of Global Quest of Love and Peace held in the Theater at the Ruins, Fort Santiago, Intramuros on April 3, 2022 where I joined the performance of Earthsavers DREAMS Ensemble;
- For the Agony, Death, and Ressurrection of the Forests and Seas and the Cross-Cultural Collaborative Showcase of Local and International Artists in the Centennial Hall of the Manila Hotel on April 5, 2022, where I rendered a interpretative contemporary dance portraying Jose Rizal.

As a young theater artist and cultural worker from regions, I truly appreciate and value this experience of working with our country's theater visionary, Ms. Cecile Guidote-Alvarez and the International Theater Institute Philippine Center. It was a new experience for me, being involved as a performer and as a voice talent in an international festival. I saw the importance of creating opportunities for local and foreign artists to gather and share creative reflections and solutions of their local context and situations, this allows us to understand the world that we live in.

APPENDIX II-C- DELEGATES FEEDBACK OUTREACH BOHOL

February 22, 2022 – I visited my hometown Bohol to meet the Chairman of the Music Theater Now Network Committee of the International Theater Institute and the Founding Artistic Director of Kasing Sining, Mr. Lutgardo Labad to formally invite them into the continuation of the SDGs ResiliArt Earthsaving Manila Event and discussed the possible collaboration with the Bohol Kasing Sining members. We are supposed to have an Outreach Program in Bohol last December but due to the Omicron surge, the second half of the SDG program in December 2021 was moved this March to April 2022. Due to the massive damage of typhoon Odette and required prolonged rehabilitation efforts. The concept of the Bohol Outreach was shifted to by inviting creative team from Kasing Sining of Bohol instead of bringing the delegates to Bohol as originally planned in December 2022. It would serve the same objective of interaction with the foreign artists with their experience in Manila shared with the Bohol Cultural Community supported by Gov. Arthur Yap. During my visit to Sir Gardy's place in Baclayon, Bohol, I also had a chance to meet Mr. Marvin Ablao (Actor/Choreographer), Mr. Jerrey David Aguilar (Program Director of Laum Bohol/Artistic Director of Kasing Sining), Mr. Joseph Dalope (Actor/Public Servant) and Ms. Jed Medrano (Writer/Director/Producer at FBN Media).

Kasing Sining is a community-based semi-professional repertory theater company aimed at the development of theater in Bohol.

From 1996 to 2001, it served as a cultural organization supported by the Provincial Government of Bohol. From 2002, it has remained independent and relies on grants and community support for its productions. Its original membership was close to forty artists during the first phase of its history, coming from different sectors of the Tagbilaran Community, but since then, Teatro Bol-anon has a flexible core of artists, fluctuating from ten to twenty performers and staff, depending on the requirements of the project.

Since 2009, when TEATRO BOL-ANON led in the development of community theaters in Bohol as an artistic training core, it helped shaped the formation of community-based cultural collectives established to provide relevant cultural entertainment to tourists and visitors as a form of social enterprise in the field of cultural tourism. These groups are: the Maribojoc Punta Cruz Cultural Collective, the Anda Cultural Collective, the Batuan Cultural Collective, and the Abatan River Development Management

Council's cluster of groups from Maribojoc Lincud, Antequera Poblacion, Antequera Sto. Rosario, Cortes, Balilihan, and Catigbian.

Its major and most notable productions mounted since 1996 include: Dagon sa Hoyohoy (Life of Boholano hero Francisco Dagohoy), Hanas/ Birtuso, Ang Tagbalantay, Sandugo Oracles, Karaang Balay, and Oktubre 15 Memoirs of a People's Faith.

When the deadly earthquake hit Bohol on October 15, 2013, resulting in a massive loss and ruin of historical churches and homes, TEATRO BOL-ANON developed in collaboration with national agencies like PETA and the NCCA, programs and activities which will aid in the cultural restoration and rehabilitation of impacted communities through psychosocial support using the arts and the theater. This ARTS FOR HEALING AND REHABILITATION Program has been called KASING SINING (Sining nga naay Kasing-kasing, or Art with a Heart).

With this mandate responding to the new historical situation in Bohol, and providing a more regular season of plays aimed at evolving a process for sustainability, its founder Gardy Labad has decided to rebuild a new TEATRO BOL-ANON with a fresh and new membership, with a reinvigorated program of training and creation, to be based in the cockpit of his hometown of Baclayon. This new repertory group is now christened the KASING SINING TEATRO BOL-ANON ENSEMBLE.

Its maiden performance took place February 2015 for the National Arts Month, with the the production TEATRO PORVENIR, a specially edited back-to-back staging of two Palanca drama winners: Edward Perez's TEATRO PORVENIR (Life of Andres Bonifacio circa 1887-1889), and Tim Dacanay's TEATRO PORVENIR (Life of Andres Bonifacio and the History of the Philippine Revolution circa 1892-2002). Supported by the community with assistance from the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA), the Province of Bohol, and the Community of Baclayon, the production employed the use of ritual and dance movements from the tradition of the Boholano komedya or linambay, arnis, pangalay, and kumtaw. Its unique performance space inside the Baclayon cockpit was a historical first in the creative and adaptive re-use of a traditional cultural structure.

“UNESCO: INTER-CULTURAL CREATIVE DANCE WORKSHOP”

NARRATIVE REPORT

DAY 1

The City of San Jose Del Monte Tourism headed by the City Tourism Officer, Mr. Roberto Peralta Ramirez Jr. in partnership with UNESCO International Theatre Institute of the Philippines Head, Ms. Cecile Guidote Alvarez conducted an event entitled: “UNESCO: Inter-Cultural Creative Dance Workshop”. A 2-day event in line with the Culture and Arts Development Program of the City in line with the application to be one of UNESCO Creative Cities Network. The Dance workshop was successfully implemented to more than 50 dance artists of San Jose Del Monte, Bulacan.

This event was held on April 11-12, 2022 at the Glasshouse, New Government Center, Brgy. Dulong Bayan, City of San Jose Del Monte, Bulacan. It was facilitated with the help of Interns from Our Lady of Fatima University, Quezon City-MICE Program with the International Resource Speaker Ms. Prapassorn Konmuang a Choreographer, Director, and Theatre Performer from Thailand.

The Registration begun exactly one (1) in the afternoon; each participant was given name tags for easy identification. Around 3PM, Mr. Robert P. Ramirez Jr. arrived at the venue together with Ms. Prapassorn Konmuang and two UNESCO ITI-Philippines Representatives. They were welcomed with the MABUHAY Greetings by the Participants, Facilitators, and City Tourism Staffs, they received garlands from the City Tourism Office as symbol of appreciation for their presence in the Workshop.

The workshop started with a prayer led by Ms. Marian Faye S. Serquiña, followed by the Philippine National Anthem and City of San Jose Del Monte Hymn. The event host Ms. Mariegles Haiffa M. Lelis officially commenced the event by calling the presence of Mr. Robert P. Ramirez Jr. the City Tourism Head of San Jose Del Monte, Bulacan to have his welcome remarks. After the welcome remarks of Mr. Ramirez Jr., the host acknowledged the presence of different dance groups of San Jose Del Monte, Bulacan starting with Gunita Dance Group headed by Mr. Daniel Gillego, Indak Paraiso headed by Mr. Dexter Casimiro, Kalatas Dance Ensemble headed by Mr. Arman Dawang, and Aspirants of Sining Tanglawan headed by Mr. John Rick Mateo.

Ms. Prapassorn “Eye” Konmuang gave an inspirational message to the participants. They formed a circle for group discussion; participants introduced themselves to Ms. Eye, and shared their expectations to the 2-day workshop. Then, for one hour, they danced gracefully with their preferred movements. Towards the end of the program, the participants shared their experiences to Ms. Eye, by how dancing inspired them to instill the value of nurturing their culture, arts, and history through dancing.

DAY 2

On the 2nd day of the UNESCO: Inter-Cultural Creative Dance Workshop, the registration started at 1PM followed by the arrival of the resource person Ms. Prapassorn Konmuang at 1:30PM on the same venue (Glass House - New Govt. Center). The program started with a prayer led by Ms. Marian Serquina, one of the event facilitators. The event formally started with group discussion about their experiences on the first day of dance workshop after that, they were randomly grouped with 10-11 members to prepare a presentation where they will show and execute their creativity through interpretative dance — they are given 15mins to conceptualize and rehearse. The five groups successfully exhibit their virtuosity with confidence through telling different stories. Also, Ms. Prapassorn Konmuang showcase her profession and expertise in her field as a theatre performer.

To acknowledge the active participation of each participant, the City Tourism Office gave them a Certificate of Participation and the resource speaker was also given a Certificate of Appreciation for her dedication and commitment in 2-day dance workshop signed by Mr. Robert P. Ramirez Jr. the City Tourism Head Officer and Mrs. Cecile Guidote-Alvarez the Director of UNESCO: International Theater Institute.

To partially close the program, the Sining Tanglaw ng San Jose Del Monte graced us with a wonderful special number. Lastly, Mrs. Cecile Guidote-Alvarez gave us a speech of acknowledgment for the closing remarks and followed by picture-taking. The fun and interactive dance workshop was successfully ended as they got the chance to interact with other dance groups and they look forward for more dance workshop.
